

Directions

Those shoes were made for walking!

Many people in Germany use public transportation to get around. In cities, there are also places called Fußgängerzonen, where you have to go by foot because vehicles aren't allowed.

The, the, and the

Remember that all nouns have a gender, and that der and ein change form depending on that gender.

gender	noun
masculine	der Bahnhof, ein Bahnhof
feminine	die Bäckerei, eine Bäckerei
neuter	das Kino, ein Kino

Hissy fit

The ch sound in ich and rechts isn't as far back in the throat as Tochter or Buch.

ich

ich, rechts
like "humid", but stronger

schwach

schwachch, Tochter like clearing your throat

Directions

Many adjectives end with -ig, which is pronounced just like ich!

-ig

billig, stressig (as in "ich")